

The purpose of this document is to demonstrate how the Metaphysics of Space and Motion and the Wave Structure of Matter (WSM) explains the foundations of the Cycles and Harmonics in the Universe. The study of cycles is an excellent way to understand Harmonics and the cyclical interconnection of matter in the Universe because the periods of cycles are as easy to recognize as fingerprints or DNA sequences.

This will emphasize the role that Harmonic Alignment and Dynamic Stability play in the process. But the reason Harmonic Alignment works at all is because there are certain frequencies for which the Universe seems to have been pre-designed. And these frequencies are harmonics of four fundamental frequencies of universal oscillation. They are the frequencies are the guiding forces for everything we've studied thus far. Whether they've manifested in the Physical Realm as the four forces in nature, the four seasons, the four energy fields and ancient elements, the four philosophical functions, the four noble truths, or the four whatever, they all have their origin in the Four Frequencies of the Universe.

In cycles, we discern structure, order, pattern, and balance. We can see this in the cycles of climate, seasons, the sun and moon, wars, geological formations, atomic vibrations, human moods and emotions, the motions of planets, animals, occurrence of diseases, and the large scale structure of the universe. There are cycles in everything and none of these are independent of each other.

A cycle is a periodically repeated sequence of events, or a predictable pattern of occurrences, as in the upward and downward sweep of a sine curve. Within these patterns, we see distinct stages of rising, sustaining, falling, and dormancy. In order to understand and discern cycles, we must have an understanding of the factors that affect all cycles. These factors are:

- 1. A cycle may actually be a conglomerate of individual cycles. For example, in nature, we find these "conglomerate cycles" in the ocean tides that actually result from two cycles -- one which is created by the moon's gravitation and another which is created by the sun's gravitation.
- 2. Cycles affect one another. A cycle is never in isolation, it is always part of a system that intertwines with the influences of other individual cycles. For example, many organic processes on Earth follow a cyclical pattern. The seasons come and go, plants die and then bloom again, and animals and plants need each other to function.
- 3. Cycles are processes affected by trends, random influences, and repetition. A cycle is not a circle which starts at one point and returns to that same point. Cycles are an interval of space or motion in which one set of events or phenomena is completed. The heartbeat of human beings is a familiar example for a cyclic process.
- 4. Cycles have aberrations. Some cycles seem to be synchronized with one another. They rise and fall in the same amount of time, and in the same time-frame. A symmetrical cycle would spend half of its time rising and half falling. But many cycles are not symmetrical. For example, some cycles continue for dozens of regular repetitions and then for unknown reasons suddenly skip a repetition, or insert a speeded-up repetition which hurries through in half of the expected time. These asymmetrical cycles might rise 75% of the time, and then suddenly drop during the remaining 25% of the time.

The universe is a predictable pattern of harmonically related oscillations which determine the structure of everything from galactic clusters to subatomic particles. Each compartmentalized oscillation cycle contains Partiki Phasing or flash-line sequences that are unique to that cycle and have the qualities of higher oscillation and lower vibration or lower oscillation and higher vibration. Harmonic resonance is an extraordinarily diverse and varied phenomenon seen in countless forms throughout the universe, from gravitational orbital resonances, to electromagnetic oscillations, to acoustical vibrations in solids, liquids, and gases, to laser resonance in light and microwaves.

For instance, currently, the planetary body is undergoing a space-time reorganization that ripples out many strange anomalies that influence the quantic field. As a result, there are new patterns of electromagnetic disturbances, interruption or distortions in the collective field. The quantum field, also referred to as inner space-time, is rippling these effects into the unmanifest layers of the core manifestation template, otherwise known as the blueprint matrices that make up the layers of Morphogenetic Fields in the earth. Many of us may feel the blueprint structure in the planetary field transforming completely with the Shifting Timelines, and this feels like something very different, extraordinary and even bizarre is occurring in the earth fields. It feels like it is a new design that is encompassing our Consciousness with the necessity to learn a foreign language, and yet it feels distantly familiar and vastly powerful. The Blueprint alterations impact the dark matter template, and this appears to have direct consequences to altering and changing the earth elements, and the elemental structure of the earth body. The planet has just completed its Magnetic Peak cycle, which discharged a massive amount of magnetic force into the earth. The Subatomic particles of elemental matter are rearranging to support the planetary body shift into the next harmonic universe. All communication systems connected to these levels of planetary architecture are undergoing fluctuation, reconfiguration and potentially re-building interstellar links that reconnect earth Portals to realign into multiple star systems and celestial bodies. This massive shift at the quantum scale is changing the Law of Structure in the architecture that governs function over our matter body, as well as our consciousness bodies.

So what is the cause and effect of these cycles? As we undergo the bifurcation of time during these cycles, it is important to understand that the current planetary consciousness shift radically magnifies and speeds up energetic forces that are governed by the Universal Law of Cause and Effect. As we move into the next Harmonic Universe, the Law of Cause and Effect manifests much more quickly, more accurately with the frequency being matched, and with more intensity on the material plane of earth than it ever did before. In every area of our life, when we generate belief systems, thoughts, behaviors, emotions and actions, this accumulates into energetic content that combines with the vibrationally matched consciousness fields that are in the environment. Moving forward, the energetic content that we send out will return back to us with increasing immediacy, and even instantaneously. Whatever the quality of energy that we broadcast out into the Universe, it sets into motion the accumulative frequency of the energetic content that will be directly returned back to us.

The third dimensional timelines to which we have been accustomed, are much more dense and infected with layers of Artificial intelligence, subconscious mind fragments, phantom spaces and dark entities. As a result of the density, the return of the corresponding reciprocal energies that occurs in the process of Cause and Effect, is slowed down in the lower density, has less energetic concentration, and takes longer to manifest in the sequence of our personal timeline. It was harder for us to connect the dots between the causal event and the actual effect our thoughtforms and emotions had upon the environment, because it took much longer, required more energetic strength and willpower to bring it into manifestation.

What's happening with the Earth Cycles? The Earth Chakras are replicated in the human energetic body at the point we incarnate on this earth. As a result of coming here, we accept the planetary body imprint on our consciousness body, which configures itself into what we know as the main chakra cones. Each of these cones have an opening that directly interfaces with the same dimensional plane of the earth's consciousness body and the 12 planets in our Solar System, that together, make up the total consciousness body of the original earth. Each of the chakras have membranes that separate the dimensions and the Ray forces that exist within that specific wave spectrum. As the planetary membranes collapse as a result of collapsing timelines and collapsing obsolete dimensional spaces (pockets of space time), so do the membranes dissolve that have created these separate compartments for the chakra cones. What is happening to dissolve the chakras membrane and the chakra panel is a result of the Universe cycles and is an evolutionary event. Yet, some of the masses are not ready to leave the chakra system because they are fully interdependent on the energy centers governing the life force to circulate into their bodies functioning, until they awaken to choose to go beyond the ego programming, it is nearly impossible to remove or clear these membranes, as they will be seriously impacted. Some people on this earth are going absolutely crazy from this change happening in the chakra fields, as they have not been prepared for what is occurring. So it is helpful to comprehend that all beings that incarnate on the 3D timelines of earth, currently have this configuration in their personal energy centers, or through spiritual Ascension and developing their lightbody, they may have evolved past the chakra membranes that created the separation in-between the dimensional planes, that are represented as the chakra energy cones in an individual. A person incarnating into this density, a very low vibration, will not be able to hold the necessary high frequency that allows them to join fully with all of their many stations of identities that had been split apart and sitting inside the dimensional access of their own chakra cones. The person through developing consciousness, gets their identities integrated, retrieves missing pieces, and those pieces reintegrate through the chakra cone, so this in itself is an appropriate function for the overall collective consciousness state that exists on the earth right now. The majority of people will not have the consciousness ability to be involved in what you are referring to in evolving out of chakras yet, and many of us here are not only here to develop our lightbody, but to hold the necessary energetic space for the entire planet, the human tribes in the collective consciousness, to be the prototype that allows future humans to continue where we have left off.

Here's the technical aspect. The Universe by analogy to a harmonic oscillator has two major components. The fabric of space-time, analog to the mass-less string and the potential energy driving this fabric in the form of kinetic energy and expansion. The internal kinetic energy of the universe is independent from the fabric of space-time. This energy not only is the cause for the accelerated expansion of the universe (similar to a harmonic oscillator), it also is responsible for the creation of matter; after all matter can consider being a "solidified" form of energy. As we know energy and matter are intrinsically related through the speed of light, which we now know it is the characteristic propagation of space-time. The Universe oscillation cycle energy field waves propagate in the fabric of space-time. Interaction between space-time field propagation and matter to generate physical photons. There are three regions of space-time;

- (1) events in motion-time region corresponding to the expanding universe,
- (2) events in light-like region, the fabric of space-time corresponding to space-time with no expansion,
- (3) events in space-like region corresponding to residual or evanescent universe. Universe is similar to a harmonic oscillator with two phase, right and left expansions. The equilibrium position for a two phase universe is the fabric of space-time with surge of the stored energy in a singularity, expanding into the next phase of expansion. The evanescent universe is the space-like event region where mass will decay, but the energy will transform. Expansion of universe and creation of matter is due to energy field propagation and superposition of energy fields in the fabric of space-time. These cyclical processes are immutable and eternal.

Almost all physical processes can be explained by breaking them down into simple building blocks and putting those blocks together. Harmonic oscillations are the building blocks of a tremendous diversity of physical phenomena and technologies, including musical instruments, antennas, patriot missiles, x-ray crystallography, holography, quantum mechanics, 3D movies, cell phones, atomic clocks, ocean waves, gravitational waves, sonar, rainbows, color perception, prisms, soap films, sunglasses, information theory, solar sails, cell phone communication, molecular spectroscopy, acoustics and lots more.
