

Earth's Energy Grid

The Earth's energy grid is made up of North/South and East/West lines and can be thought of as a web that holds or links the Earth together. The energy grid is affected by many influences such as electricity, magnetism, light, color, heat, electro-magnetic waves, sound and matter. The energy grid operates through certain geometrical patterns that follow a specific symmetry and meet at various intersecting points forming a kind of matrix.

It is necessary for us to understand how this works so we understand the influences of Earth Energy over the physical life. To begin with, the sun ejects large quantities of charged particles from its upper atmosphere, consisting of plasma of high-energy electrons and protons called the Solar Wind. The Solar Wind reaches the earth at speeds up to 900 km/s and can cause geomagnetic storms that have enough power to knock out power grids and form auroras in the upper atmosphere.

The earth, consisting mostly of molten iron, has a strong north-south magnetic field around it. The flux lines of the earth's magnetic field are revolving continuously around the polar axis with a period of 24 hours and when the solar wind hits the earth the effect is that of an enormous generator. It generates in the region of 20-150 kV of electric potential across the upper atmosphere (magnetosphere) and up to a million Megawatts of power as the earth revolves.

The resulting currents flowing across the entire skin of the earth's surface are known as Earth Energy or Telluric currents which are electrical currents in the form of Extremely Low Frequency (ELF) electromagnetic waves. The waves consist of slowly propagating and oscillating electrons and ions synchronized exactly with the earth's 24 hour rotation. An Earth Energy cycle occurs consisting of electrons propagating in one direction for 12 hours and then back in the opposite direction during the next 12 hours, changing directions at noon and midnight precisely.

Over the millions of years that the earth has been rotating around the sun the electromagnetic waves of the Earth Energy have settled across the face of the earth, taking the path of least resistance, and stabilized into a very coherent grid of low frequency longitudinal electric waves. These Earth Energy electrical waves are quite stationary as the electrons and ions pass along them, guided and stabilized by the magnetic fields they generate. An analogy of this would be to see a fast stream descending down a mountainside; the water flows rapidly, with waves undulating up and down. Overall, the waves appear to be stationary whereas the water is running rapidly downhill.

There are two principal Earth Energy grids are called the Hartmann and Curry Grids (named after the scientists who discovered them). Both of these Earth Energy grids exist in sympathetic harmony with earth's 24 hour period. The Curry Grid with a wavelength of about 4.5 meters, follows the even overtones of the 24 hour period: 12, 6, 3, 1.5 hours and 45, 22.5, 11.2, 5.6, 2.8 minutes and is aligned in the south-west to north-east and north-west and south-east directions. While the Hartmann Grid, with a wavelength of about 3 meters, starts at the first odd overtone ($24/3=8$ hours) followed by its even overtones: 4, 2, 1, 0.5 hours etc. Together they produce an amazing universal grid of Earth Energy across the entire globe.

Along with heat and light, Earth Energy (or geomagnetic energy) is the most common form of electric wave on earth. However, as an energy source this Earth Energy is by far the most stable and consistent form. Life on earth since its most primitive origins millions of years ago has evolved under the influence of Earth Energy as well as light and heat.

The coherent longitudinal electric waves of Earth Energy represent synchronized standing waves and are completely polarized within their grids. Therefore invoking resonant energy from these energy waves becomes very simple. For example if we were to use a large crystalline stone such as the Menhir or Dolmen and place it into the energy grid, a corresponding resonance of energy can be detected within the stone. The level of resonating energy within the stone can be altered by changing the consistency, shape and location of the stone. A stone shaped to accommodate an exact sympathetic wavelength of Earth Energy that is placed at the node of two intersecting gridlines will produce more powerful resonance. The energy levels of the resonance within the stone can be further amplified if for instance the stone is placed on a node that is also above the crossing of two or more underground streams then this is known as spiral amplification.

The Crystalline Grid

The crystalline grid is an energy grid that surrounds the Earth which is regarded as a gigantic crystal of the form of a normal hollow dodecahedron and consists of 12 main nodal points of high energy, which bring together major energy lines, and of 144 secondary nodal points which bring together secondary energy lines.

It is called crystalline, because the energy, for each focal point primary or not, comes from crystals located inside the Earth. These crystals in turn take additional energy from the large crystal at the core of the Earth which is referred to as the Central Sun of the Earth.

This network exchange gives and also receives energies with all the living or inorganic forms of the Earth. Many of the ancient temples and monuments are built in the locations of the nodal points, where energy is concentrated

The distances between them are generally on the three angles of isosceles triangles. These points are concentrations of high energy. A corresponding crystalline grid of focal points exists also on the inner Earth surface.

Origins of the Life Force

Crystalline structures can be found in the cells of living creatures and can therefore trap resonant Earth Energy from the grids of geomagnetic energy within the earth. In fact throughout evolution every single living cell of every plant and animal has resonant Earth Energy trapped within it.

The liquid crystal nature of living cell membranes stimulates resonance in exactly the same coherent, phased and polarized fashion as the Earth Energy that affects it, ultimately forming a super synchronous system across the body as a whole. This is often referred to as the Life Force of the organism and is synchronized harmonically to the 24 hour period of the rotation of the earth. To be precise they form horizontal and vertical energy rings having a period based on the Curry Grid of 11.2 minutes (and its even overtones: 2.8, 5.6) or the Life Frequency. The Life Force emanating from every living organism is often referred to as its aura and can be measured by techniques such as Kirlian photography and Gas Discharge Visualization and manipulated using holistic healing methods.

Sound and light

The different forms of energy that exist within the earth's ecosystem have their own particular characteristics, but they have certain features in common such as travelling in wave form and thus have a wavelength and frequency. Humans and animals are sensitive to many wave forms – heat, light, sound, vibrations in the ground as well as geomagnetic energy. Different nerves within an organism have been developed throughout evolution to detect and analyze these various wave forms. Throughout evolution the brain has learned to interpret these nervous impulses. In the most primitive species the simple ability to detect heat and light to produce food energy was essential. In higher species more sophisticated forms of wave detection became important such as the analysis of vibration and sound to hunt for food or to avoid a predator. In the case of migratory animals it was also the ability to detect and analyze Magnetic and Earth Energies to determine bearing and distance.

The most energy efficient method of utilizing wave frequencies such as: amplifying, transferring, translating and transforming, is to take advantage of the wave frequency's sympathetic resonances. That is using frequencies (cycles per second or Hertz, Hz) that are doubles or halves of each other. An example of this is to take a series of tuning forks in a room and striking one to sing on its own, such as A4 at 440Hz. Very quickly all the other tuning forks tuned in double or halves of 440Hz (i.e. ones which are whole octaves higher and lower) e.g. A3 at 220Hz and A5 at 880Hz will also start singing in sympathetic resonance with the tuning fork that was originally struck. The energy transfer and translation between these standing waves of sound is highly efficient. During the course of evolution the nervous system and brain has taken advantage of these phenomena and a resonant relationship can be found in many of the senses. In humans harmonic relationships can be found between the fundamental frequencies of Earth Energy, the solar system and our senses: The Heartbeat of the Earth and the Life Frequency & Life Energy can be related to primitive music and our visible spectrum.

The Heartbeat of the Earth

Many ancient and primitive cultures use specialized sacred tunes for religious and spiritual purposes. Originally, virtually all sacred music was tuned to the Heartbeat of the Earth and many still survive. In modern musical terms the primary note to play music to the Heartbeat of the Earth is a little above C-sharp or 560Hz. Music to the Earth is tuned to this root note: The sidereal day, or the day measured with respect to the transit of the stars, lasts 86,164 seconds. The Megalithic protractor used a 366 degree circumference which was broken down into 60 minutes and 6 seconds or 131,760 seconds in a circumference. From this it can be deduced that the Earth will rotate one Megalithic second of arc every 0.65394657 seconds. To convert this into cycles per second (Hz) $366 / 0.65394657 = 560 \text{ Hz}$

During sacred ceremonies nearly all ancient civilizations play music to the Earth with instruments tuned to this fundamental note. Many of the sacred chants used by Tibetan monks are also tuned to this fundamental note.

Waves analyzed by the brain

When the brain detects energy waves in the form of light and sound there are two basic streams that analyze it: 'What is it?' and 'Where is it?' The two streams for the auditory and visual cortex of the brain function in similar ways. In fact they are so similar that the two can be confused either by drugs or through illness. Using psychedelic drugs people have described experiences of seeing sound in the form of shapes and colors. A serious medical condition known as Synesthesia provokes people to mix up their senses. In fact, to a certain degree, everyone suffers from a certain degree of Synesthesia – that is why many cross-sensory metaphors such as "loud shirt", "bitter wind" and "prickly laugh" make sense to most people.

If we double the Earth Tone 560Hz, 40 times (i.e. raise it by 40 octaves) the result is 6.16 TeraHertz (THz) – this is the color blue in the visual spectrum or the color of the sky and pure water. The entire visual spectrum of humans is harmonized with the midsection of the musical audio spectrum: from red (4.0 THz) to purple (8.0 THz), it lies within an octave and is harmonized from just below F4-sharp at 364Hz through to just below F5-sharp at 728Hz with the Earth Tone lying in the middle, just above C4-sharp at 560Hz. The body maintains a resonant relationship between the colors we see and the sounds we hear - it leverages off of the harmonic relationships between the frequencies of various energy forms as a building block to live and grow within the Earth's ecosystem.

The reason for this is not coincidence, but simply that humans have taken advantage of the fundamental laws of the Earth during their evolutionary development. The Earth rotates at a certain frequency, which determines the frequency of the Geomagnetic Energy, which in turn governs the resonance of the living cells and ultimately of the entire body. Blue is the color of water in its purest form and the essence of all life. Blue is also the color of the sky when life giving light shines through it onto the earth. Blue lies at the midpoint along the octave of the frequencies of the human visual spectrum and is in sympathetic harmony with the Earth Tone. This allows humans to visualize the most important aspects of the environment around them to improve survival and development.

For this reason, ancient sacred music uses the Earth Tone as its root. Tones of ancient sacred music tuned the Earth Tone are in sympathetic harmony with the Earth, water, the sky, and the Life Frequency. When sacred music, tuned to the Earth tone, is played it is readily absorbed into conducting stone and will resonate in objects such as sacred stones which have been cut to allow resonance at the correct frequencies and wavelengths. There is also a flow of resonance within the human body since the tones are in harmony with the Life Force and Frequency. The tones are additionally able to flow into the standing waves of the Curry and Hartmann Grids, since these are also in sympathetic harmony with the Earth Tone. Because sacred stones are placed at the nodes of the Curry and Hartmann Grid they facilitate the transition of harmonic energy created by sacred music played around them into the earth. Under the right conditions, people trained to be sensitive to electromagnetic waves of the Curry and Hartmann Grids can pick up music at a sacred stone site, which is being played at another far distant site. Since the electromagnetic standing waves of Earth Energy are a very low loss transition media the energy levels may be conserved over very long distances and thus the distance between the sacred stone sites is not an issue.

The human body, down to the tiniest nerve cell, is built to be in tune with the surrounding Earth Energy. The body is capable of detecting even slight variations in frequency, amplitude and direction of the ELF electromagnetic frequency of Earth Energy. This level of sensitivity does not exist at a conscious level, but only at a subconscious level, otherwise the mind would be inundated with data.

Earth's Chakra System

Just as your physical body has seven (or more) identifiable energy centers, or swirling vortices of subtle energy, so does the planet have chakra centers that govern Earth's health and act as a reflection of Earth's energetic evolution. The general essence of the Earth's chakra points are to magnify the energy correlated to the body's chakras. When you immerse yourself in these energy fields you will find that your own physical electromagnetic field will become aligned with the frequency of the chakra point you are in.

Number	Central Energy Locations (Earth Chakras)
One	Mt Shasta, California, USA
Two	Lake Titicaca, Peru-Bolivia, South America
Three	Uluru-Kata Tjuta, Northern Territory, Australia
Four	Glastonbury and Shaftesbury, England
Five	Great Pyramid, Mt. Sinai, Mt of Olives, Middle East
Six	Aeon activation chakra, mobile (currently stationary)
Seven	Mount Kailas, Tibet

Earth's vortexes or vortices are points where energy spirals and flows up and out. The general essence of vortexes is that of intensity. Whatever energy you bring when you visit these places will be amplified. They are crystalline dimensional gates that are vibrationally tuned to a multitude of realities. Vortexes allow you to become any frequency along the full spectrum of harmonic light. Vortexes link you to the stage of energy that most aligns with your present state of being. They connect with Earth's chakra points, working together as an energetic grid around the planet.

Sedona is the highest frequency location in the Western Hemisphere. It is one of the strongest gateways and doorways of interdimensional connection that assists in balancing the energy grid of the entire planet. It is the 33rd parallel vibrating at thirty-three cycles per second. As it runs into other chakra points and vortices, creating new crests and troughs, the vibration diminishes to ten cycles per second.

Cairo, Egypt has an incredible history enabling humanity to see the full spectrum of what is possible to be expressed in a vortex. It is a place of captivity and war in the Bible, and a place of incredible technology, at times with extraterrestrial assistance. Its polarity of intensity swings back and forth from the godly power of the Pharaohs to the aligning of Earth's energy grid to spread consciousness to the people. Egypt has an incredible power to exaggerate whatever the dominant energy is, revealing truth or control.

The Bermuda Triangle is the major shifting vortex on planet Earth. It is a major gateway and acts as a fluctuating chakra and vortex simultaneously. It is intimately connected and overlaps with the Vesica Pisces created by Mt. Shasta and Sedona, intertwining many dimensions of reality. Because it is a doorway to different dimensions, civilizations and various vibrational states, often times individuals, ships or aircraft have gone missing from Earth into other dimensions.

These are a few minor chakra points and vortices around the world:

Hawaiian Islands (Big Island and Kauai)

Moab, Utah (Upheaval Dome)

Antigua, Guatemala

Cape Town, South Africa (Table Mountain)

Moscow, Russia

Jerusalem, Israel

Fiji

Tirta Empul, Bali

Lake Rotopounamu, New Zealand

One: Mt. Shasta

Mt. Shasta is located at the southern end of the Cascade Range, which runs like a dragon from northern California, through Oregon, and through Washington to the Canadian border. There are many powerful mountains in this range, with Mt. Shasta and Mount Rainier – overlooking Seattle – the best known. If Shasta is the tail of this dragon, then Rainier is its mouth, or head. Impulses generated from Mt. Shasta, and directed to Mt. Rainier, resulted in the 1947 “UFO” phenomena gaining world attention. This increase in earth chakra transmission was in reaction to humanity's introduction of atomic weaponry to conclude World War II.

Shasta is the most primal of the earth chakras. It is at the “base” of the world energy system. Here, the raw precursors of biological life are released into global circulation and development. Mt. Shasta regulates the universal life force prior to its integration into individual life forms and species. The energy of Shasta, as the first chakra, is like a geyser – a great uprush of life energy, or prana, without shape or structure. It is often associated with the “The Violet Flame” or Saint Germain, the purifying violet energy which transmutes denser energies and reignites the flame of your divine purpose. The symbol and energy are also represented in Shasta's energy of being the meeting place of the high council, the place where humans step into their roles as ascended masters and physicalize Christ Consciousness on Earth. Mount Shasta is in the geographic region that was once, and always is because everything is now, "ancient" Lemuria. It is a dimensional gate to the Lemurian civilization, reminding us of how we can live in harmony on Earth.

Mount Shasta co-creates an energetic Vesica Pisces with the Sedona Vortex. Together, they are connected by a line of energy and their radiating electromagnetic fields combine, immersing the geographic locations between them in a resonance of 33 cycles per second.

When working with the forces of Mt. Shasta, it is vital to transfer all evoked energies to at least one of the other major world chakras. The life current of Shasta does not take form until it is transformed within one of the other great continental chakras. There are times when the transfer is from Chakra One to Chakra Two, or from One to Seven, for example. Factors which determine the direction of these transfers will be introduced and discussed later.

Two: Lake Titicaca

On the Island of the Sun, in Lake Titicaca, is found the Titicaca Stone, which is the geometrical center for the second earth location. This is the world center for the creation of new species, and significant evolutionary advances within existing species. In the human body, Lake Titicaca correlates to the sexual chakra. The difference is that the world second chakra governs all species, taking a special interest in positive mutations and evolutionary advancements. Lake Titicaca radiates the essence of the mother archetype, the abundant "momma". All power points have both masculine and feminine energies, and Titicaca is dominantly feminine. Being the sacral chakra, it is the energy of the womb of your inner creator. New ideas, creativity and a balance of sexual energy spring forth here. With the ancient city of Tiwanaku on the lake, this has been a sacred gateway for millennia

From Titicaca is born what is truly New. This sequence, over the Aeons, of innovative births always points in the direction of the goal of life – everlasting life. How can life force and structure be combined in a way that overcomes entropy? The Earth wisdom of the Andes continually seeks to answer this question with ever-increasing clarity.

The undifferentiated life force of Chakra One, Mt. Shasta, is transmitted to Lake Titicaca via the great world ley artery – The Plumed Serpent. This life-giving telluric current encircles the world, and has its evocational home at the El Tule tree in Mexico. Lake Titicaca is one of the two greatest ley crossroads on Earth. The Rainbow Serpent intersects the Plumed Serpent at the Island of the Sun. These two gigantic ley arteries also cross each other on the island of Bali, in Indonesia. Mt. Kailas opens visitors' spiritual eyes to see their true mystical nature. It is a pilgrimage site for at least 4 religions; Hindus, Buddhists, Jains and Tibetans who perambulate clockwise around the mountain spiraling the direction of the chakra's energy. Buddhists call it 'the precious jewel snow peak' and its inner radiance and dreamy nature allow insight, contemplation and the ability to gaze into other dimensions.

If you construct this second world location on a map, let the circumference pass through the junction of the Napo and Marañon rivers, near Iquitos, Peru, where the Amazon River begins. Notice that this great circle includes the heart of the Andes range, and includes many other sacred sites, such as Cuzco and Machu Picchu. All sacred sites within the expanded sphere of a world chakra partake of the same defining qualities. Thus, Machu Picchu is also a world second chakra force.

Three: Uluru and Kata Tjuta

These twin sites in the Northern Territory, Australia, comprise the world “solar plexus” . Uluru, formerly known as Ayers Rock, is the more famous of the two. This large red monolith is, along with the Sydney Opera House, an icon of the smallest continent. Kata Tjuta, also called The Olgas, is equally impressive. Rather than one monolith, this site consists of a large number of massive red stones.

The global function of this chakra is to maintain the vitality of the Earth, and all living species. In the future, if there is a world art of immortal health, then the wisdom of this art will be gained from Chakra Three in central Australia. This wisdom is delivered to the rest of the world via the ley artery, the Rainbow Snake. Uluru/Ayers Rock is believed by the native Aboriginals to be the beginning place where their ancestors were born into this realm... where life began. It emanates the root of where we come from as humans, and our connection to all humanity and beyond. Out of the void, in the middle of the vast Australian desert, emerges the huge electro-magnetic rock where life originated.

The Rainbow Serpent travels the path of life. It arises from deep beneath the surface of the Earth, and first emerges at Uluru. The Uluru magick is then transmitted to Kata Tjuta via a special song line which exits Uluru on its western side from the cave of the hare wallaby, Mala Puta. Once in the natural cathedral of Kata Tjuta, the universal vitality force is shaped into the various designs suited to the many different species of life on Earth. After the “packaging” of solar plexus energies, in the Valley of the Winds, the Rainbow Serpent leaves this area from the large heart-shaped stone, Ngungarra (scarlet Fuchsia), and travels on to Bali.

The energies of Two from Lake Titicaca are directly sent to Three – Uluru and Kata Tjuta – via the world ley artery, the Rainbow Serpent, which crosses the South Pacific Ocean, sweeps underneath New Zealand, and enters the Australian mainland at Wilson’s Promontory.

In the ancient creation legends of “Dreamtime”, there is a story about a great ritual which has yet to be completed at Uluru. This ritual was meant to complete the great plan of the earth spirit. When the ritual is complete, then perfection will spread throughout the world, and death will disappear from all species. This event is symbolized by a great pole, or cosmic umbilical cord, which is destined to unite the Sun with the Earth – heaven with earth. It is predicted that this cord begins to function in 2020 AD, at the time of the rare Saturn-Pluto conjunction.

Four: Glastonbury and Shaftesbury

Glastonbury is destined to be the “Communication Headquarters” for Europe in the 5th dimension network. It currently acts as a world communication outlet expressed through the crop circles, just outside of Wiltshire. The crop circles act as humanity's collective communication symbols as they receive messages from other extraterrestrial intelligences and dimensions. Glastonbury is the location of the legendary Avalon of mystical Merlin and the story of King Arthur. It was also the territory of the Druid peoples, thus connecting us with our inner magic, alchemy and connection to nature.

Glastonbury, Somerset and Shaftesbury, Dorset define the center of the world's heart . In order for the force of greater life to be directed to maximum effect, the Grail of Immortality must be permeated by the Wand of the True Will. Glastonbury is the home of the Holy Grail; and Shaftesbury is the high place of the Sacred Spear of Purpose. When the earth energies of Glastonbury unite with those of Shaftesbury, then the Rainbow Serpent ley artery is able to deliver the immortalizing frequencies of the Holy Grail to all beings worldwide.

The great circle of the Rainbow Serpent travels from Uluru to Bali to Mt. Kailas to Sergiev Posad (Zagorsk), then crosses Denmark before entering England near Great Yarmouth. As this broad ley river crosses England it sweeps through many famous sacred sites, all of which contribute to the world heart chakra. Avebury Stone Circle and the Tor at Glastonbury are perhaps the two most famous of these heart "acupuncture" points. If you imagine this ley artery as having width, then Shaftesbury is near its southern back, while Glastonbury is on the northern bank.

It was said during Medieval times that if the Abbot of Glastonbury married the Abbess of Shaftesbury, then their children would be wealthier than the King of England. This is an alchemical riddle. If you unite the archetypes of the two areas, then love is united with will in a way that is revolutionary. For those who study the Cabala, this alchemical formula unites Binah (Grail) with Chokmah (Wand). The Grail, directed by the Will of the Earth spirit, has the power to dissolve all boundaries between nations. If the heart of the Earth expands to its full circle, then – throughout the world – pain, suffering, and physical death among all species will fade from experience and memory.

The most famous legend of Glastonbury tells the story of Joseph of Arimathea and the Holy Grail. After the Resurrection of Jesus, Joseph shifted the archetype of Everlasting Life – the Grail – from Jerusalem to Glastonbury. This ritual act established the foundation for the eventual shift of the mobile world sixth chakra from the activation circle for the Aeon of Pisces, 2000 years ago, to the present Aquarian Aeon area in western Europe. Currently, the mobile sixth chakra is conjunct the world heart chakra.

To move world solar plexus energies to Four, the principal direction is from Uluru-Katatjuta to Bali to Mt. Kailas (Chakra Seven), to Sergiev Posad, Russia to Shaftesbury-Glastonbury. As this Rainbow Serpent force travels around the world it absorbs and releases information at the various sites. Shaftesbury, in particular, acts to decode information brought by the Rainbow Snake from Mt. Kailas, in Tibet.

It is also possible to shift the force from Three to Four by utilizing the opposite direction on the Rainbow Snake – from Uluru to Lake Titicaca, over the Azores, into Cornwall, and up to Glastonbury-Shaftesbury. Also, a simultaneous dual impulse in both directions would complete a great world circle involving the Following Earth Chakras: Two, Three, Four, Six, and Seven.

Five: Great Pyramid, Mt. Sinai, and Mt. of Olives

The world "Throat" where the voice of Earth is emerging, is unique among the world sacred centers. Alone among the locations, it is not on either the Rainbow Serpent (feminine) or Plumed Serpent (masculine) ley flows. By its spinning function this chakra does help to drive the force along the Rainbow Serpent path – but at a great distance. This sphere of fifth chakra energies, in the Middle East, is also a major component of another vital Earth structure – the Four Vortices, or Spinner Wheels, which regulate qualities related to the four elements of fire, air, water, and earth. Sacred sites related to these four areas will be described after this section on the seven world chakras.

For all of the earth locations or think of them like the chakras, the art of listening to the will of the Earth is something which needs to be mastered. Humans will never harmonize with the purpose of life until they learn to hear and respect the voice of the Earth spirit. Nowhere is this more crucial than in the Middle East, where the world throat chakra resides.

The Earth is speaking, and no one seems to be listening. Imagine a Middle East where Jerusalem and Mecca are world heritage cosmopolis, open to all cultures. Imagine a Middle East that is at the world vanguard in advancing the respect for all beings – human and non-human – to live, and live abundantly. From Egypt to Iran, imagine a Middle East that is culturally united, and communicating to the rest of the world the art of everlasting life. The voice of the Earth is singing the gospel of life in this region. Who is listening?

Three sites are given here as best defining the center of this chakra. Mt. Sinai, between the other two, is a useful point from which to construct the expanded circle. The Immortal Moses, who carried Cabalistic wisdom from out of Egypt, crossed the abyss and beheld Living Eternity at Sinai. The Great Pyramid is one of the few artificial earth chakras. Unite your own True will with the Highest Purpose of the Earth and, with energized enthusiasm, project this united force as a living word from out of the Queen's Chamber of the Great Pyramid – or from the summit. The Mount of Olives, on the eastern edge of Jerusalem – overlooking the mystic Golden Gate – is a focus for Jewish, Christian, and Islamic futurism. If Immortality is the key, archetypal Word of this Aquarian Aeon, then this Word needs to be clearly heard, by all cultures, from the Mount of Olives. From here, let the Word of the Aeon open the Golden Gate, so that all beings may enter into full life within a planetary New Jerusalem – an eternal home to all species, cultures, and faiths.

Six: The Aeon Activation Center, mobile

This earth chakra, like the others, has a geometrical center and an ideal, expanded circumference. The difference is that this "third eye" moves 1/12th of the way around the world, to the west, at the dawn of each new Aeon. The great Aeons are determined by a slow revolution of the Earth's axis. The names given to these Aeons are taken from the 12 signs of the zodiac. Currently, we are said to be leaving the Aeon of Pisces, and entering the Aeon of Aquarius. Sometime after 4000 AD, this shift occurs again, when the Earth enters the Capricornian Aeon.

When the time arrives, the Earth spirit sends out a signal which invites all interested forces to gather in a certain geographical area for the purpose of inaugurating a new age. As these forces coalesce, the world sixth chakra establishes itself, begins to operate, and expands. This chakra remains in place for 150 to 200 years - long enough for the new Aeon archetypes to be instituted - and then it dissolves. Over two millennia ensue, and then the call goes out again to gather 1/12th to the west.

The purpose of this activity is to distill the gathered wisdom of life on Earth from over the centuries, and then to use these fruits of wisdom to open new directions of Earth evolution. In each great Aeon, different themes are emphasized. Compassion, for example, was a key Word of the previous Piscean Aeon; physical immortality is the word of the new, emerging Aquarian Age.

At the present time (1904 to 2084) the sixth is geographically conjunct with the world heart chakra in western Europe. In terms of time, this Aquarian frequency is at its most potent in April and May of 2008 AD. Worldwide cultural forces which accelerate at this time reach their full maturity in 2065 AD.

In many regions of the world, there are legends of the Immortals. Often, when these stories imagine a collective body of immortals, an invisible city is named. Examples of this are Pulaki (Bali), Shambhalla (Mongolia), Avalon (England), and The Church of the First Born (biblical). These legends interpret a revolutionary truth – immortality has existed for a long time on Earth. Often, the immortals follow very individualistic, solitary pathways, hidden from the outer world. Then, when the Earth spirit summons all forces for the birth of a new Aeon, many of these social misfits make new contributions to the new area and its new themes. This coalition is temporary, and, after the Aeon is activated, all parties resume their individual pathways for another 2000+ years.

Here is a list of the geometrical centers for the most recent Aeons, and for two future Aeons: Gemini - Tai Shan, China; Taurus –Mt. Belukha, Siberia; Aries - Kun-E-Malek-Siah, Iran; Pisces - Mt. of Olives, Great Pyramid; Aquarius - Glastonbury-Shaftesbury; Capricorn - near Recife, Brazil; Sagittarius - near Manaus, Brazil. (Brazil plays an important role in the next two Aeons, circa 4000 and 6000 AD.)

Seven: Mt. Kailas

Kailas is the most sacred mountain in the Himalayas, and is the center of the world crown chakra. Located in Tibet, it is the focus for the annual Scorpio full moon event, in April or May. For the Earth, and for all immortals, this moon marks the new year, in terms of global evolution. For those who have never worked with the lunar calendar, this particular full moon, associated with Mt. Kailas, is a good place to start.

Chakra Seven broadcasts the Earth purpose, or True Will. If we see the world as an architect, at work in building a global immortal structure, then the blue prints for this vibrant edifice are being released, year by year, from the crown at Kailas. For this reason, it is important to give one's full attention to this annual full moon, in particular, to the 90 minute period leading up to the exact culmination time of the Scorpio full moon. It is at this time that an individual may find their own True Will illuminated by the Earth spirit. The design and details of one's own work becomes clarified through this activity.

Work progresses through time. In addition to the annual lunar cycle, Kailas also releases information concerning larger time cycles. For example, the principal constructive activity of the mobile sixth chakra is controlled from Kailas, through four great 19 year time cycles based on special Scorpio full moons, from 1989 to 2065. These 19 year periods are sometimes called Great Wesak Cycles. A second, more frequent, 12 year cycle is also utilized by immortals in the building of the future. This 12 pattern is called the Melchizedek Cycle, and is initiated when Jupiter is in the sign of Aries. Recent Melchizedek starting points were in 1939, 1951, 1963, 1975, 1987, and 1999. The next one will be in 2011.

There is a legend about the Lost Chord of Creation, somewhat like the story of the Holy Grail. If three lost notes could be found, and sounded together, then the world will unveil its eternal nature, and all things mortal will vanish. It is possible to reconstruct this lost chord by working with the earth chakras. Listen for the sound of praise emanating from Mt. Kailas. Hear the note of love sounding from Chakra Four, the world's heart center. Then hear the sound of joyous thanksgiving singing from Chakra Three, Uluru and Kata Tjuta. Have the creativity and wisdom to combine these three notes into one force, and then regenerate the world.
