

RED MOON

Wavespell:

Red Moon is the cosmic seed of awakened awareness. Consume it like a fruit, and let it blossom within you. You are on the quest of self-remembrance. If you work with the energy of Red Moon with clear awareness and attention, an awakened state of remembrance will naturally blossom within you. Remembrance means having direct access to your expanded presence through an intrinsic perception of unity. Remembrance is your recognition of the larger pattern and your connection to it, often facilitated through dreams, art, music, colors and creative pursuits. With focused attention, meditate on Red Moon and you will receive help with self-remembrance.

Red Moon is also a beacon or transmitting station. As you open to self-remembrance, you become a beacon and receiver for cosmic consciousness. This communication creates the gradual opening of the third eye, the eye within the monolith of self. As this eye opens and your communication becomes more refined, you will notice more signs, signals and understanding coming to you. These are all for your growth and evolution - a feedback system from which you can gain insight about your journey.

Red Moon's action – its direction in life – is to purify. Red Moon innately washes situations clean and clear and will boundlessly work to create clarity and restored light where there has been a burden or blockage. The methodology of Red Moon is similar to water: slow and steady eradication, a stream of contact that enforces purity over time instead of in a lightning strike. Water can be forceful when gravity and a steep downhill incline increase its speed of flow, but more often it serves as a clarifying agent through constancy and sustained contact. There is emotion in Red Moon's purification. When offering another to come clean, Red Moon people become filled with stilted feelings of intense compassion to despair in viewing another life so darkened in shadow. They offer the overflow of their tears to purify through empathy.

Red Moon's power – its offering to strengthen us in turn – is universal water.

Water is the Universal Life Force. We drink it, we bathe in, we swim in, we sail upon it, we cultivate crops in it, and see its cloud cover. It has a parallel to the circuitry of water within us, the currents of our own biology. Universal water includes the bodies of water we are, wet with saline, with blood, with endocrine and lymph. When we cry, we rain. When we sweat, we evaporate. When we fill with fluids we are ourselves more in flow. Red Moon represents our moon at the center of these gravitational influences upon us, connecting us to the orbits and intersections of the cosmos. We are affected by the other aspects of the universe: planetary bodies whose interplay pulls at us tidally, makes us extreme or in balance at different junctures of the planets, moons, and stars.

Red Moon has the essence of flow, because water is always in motion. Still water caught without a place to flow will become stagnant. Our inner streaming is constant, feeding cells oxygen, tissues, and the fluidity of our blood. On the surface of the earth, water also flows. It falls then collects in the canyons of the earth's curvatures. The stronger the collection of water molecules, the wider the flow. The steeper the earth's topology, the faster the flow downhill to larger waters. Once in the communion of connected rivers, streams, run offs in the vast expanse of a world ocean, there is still flow in tidal currents, wind resistance, and swells that emanate from the ocean floor from earth's seismic activity. We are the same, jiggling our own water flow with our skeletal shifts, our tightened and relaxed muscle pulses. The water within us gurgles, surges, runs to momentary foment then stills more in its streams. In the Red Moon essence, we can move around life's hard edges, spill over the rough terrain in our aim to greater communion with all in a rolling sea.

Red Moon is antipodal, opposite, to Blue Storm. As antipodes balance each other, it's perfect that Red Moon offers Blue Storm its main molecular composition of water. Blue Storm in turn is the agent of catalyzing water to change locations, to intensify its flow, and to participate in a cathartic cleansing and clearing moment. Red Moon will evaporate into cloud formations, and as the water condenses it can become too heavy for staying airborne in the sky. Blue Storm is the action of overcrowding exploded into freedom. The water molecules chafe against each other until a spark of fire ignites – thunder, lightning – and then comes the downpour. Water that rose from one location of the earth travels far by wind currents and the storm's fireworks. It bathes and purifies another parcel of land.

Blue Storm helps Red Moon with grand gestures of change, greater movements of its soul purpose. And Red Moon's emotional expanse is what feeds Blue Storm's own grandeur, its perceived expressions of rage, torment, grief. Blue Storm liberates Red Moon from being too skyward, brings it back to earth. Red Moon is in turn the foundational element of Blue Storm's existence. Red Moon may be challenged by all the upheaval a storm will serve, when it may have preferred to be still, an ambling stream. But the ions are charged with change and the water purer, fresher for its time in the sky.

Red Moon is analogous, supported by White Dog. White Dog is mammalian love, a heart warmed by the flow of blood throughout an animal body. White Dog is strengthened and defined by its inner fluidity and the heat that motion produces. Red Moon is water, and again – with more consciousness than the other prime elements – animal kind is dependent on water for drinking, maintaining its fluid nature. In life, Red Moon people need love, want to cleanse and purify because of their loyalties and hope that in the outcome stronger love connections will be cultivated – between beloveds, families, communities as well as in every individual's relationship to Creator. White Dog's loving heart is bruised and broken if it stays too rigid. Red Moon gives it adaptability, changeability and a path of going with the flow so there is less hardship and edginess. Water softens and smooths and clarifies heart connections.

Red Moon has a mystical, occult relationship to Yellow Human. Yellow Human is a likewise a mammal, although more intellectually developed than White Dog. Our need for water not just instinctual but conscious, something we plan rigorously to attain and sustain in our lives. But the deepest connection we may feel to water is innately ceremonial, the ritual of cleansing and purification present even when we take a shower or wash dishes. Water soothes, helps the inner workings of our body reflect the outer flow we let spill over us in the simplest gestures of watering the garden, swimming through the summer, riding the waves of a seascape. The moon, too, is our hidden divinity, helping Yellow Human to be influenced by grand planetary movements instead of our ego and its will to control, contain nature. Red Moon will feel the advent of Yellow Human passages as empowerment: usually a base element of water flow or moon phases, it is suddenly given meaning, homage, through a human mind, human influence. It is a time to feel worthy, important and vital, and to both receive reverence and provide ritual purification that satisfies the Red Moon impulse to rid the world of toxins and blockages of flow.
